

Celebrate Christmas at the Otago Museum

Get into the Christmas spirit these holidays with activities for the whole family at the Otago Museum. From live music to festive crafts, there is something to bring Christmas cheer to everyone.

Santa's helpers, the Museum Elves, will be making space-related decorations for the Christmas tree, and need some help! Join the elves in their workshop and makerspace to create your own galaxy of decorations, and take a 'selfie with an elfie'. This activity is free and suitable for all ages, although younger children will require adult assistance.

Christmas Live at the Otago Museum is back for 2015 with a stellar line-up of performers. Enjoy joyful yuletide harmonies courtesy of Cantores Choir, the University of Otago student choir, at 1pm on Saturday 19 December. The Dunedin Harmony Chorus will get toes tapping with their range of feel-good Christmas tunes on Sunday 20 December at 1pm. Jonny Dyas will perform at 2pm on both Saturday 19 and Sunday 20 December, playing contemporary and classical hits for the holiday season on the grand piano.
